

Bards in the Bog

Thanks to those listed below, who made the project, the publication and the launch evening work so well...

- Our Poet Partner Jen Hadfield, who chose an excellent and varied selection of poems.
- The Scottish Poetry Library, Paul Hamlyn Foundation and Shetland Arts who helped fund Poet Partner.
- The Shetland Library for funding poetry frames, staff time, advertising and promotion.
- Participating toilets – in public buildings all over Shetland, from the airport at Sumburgh to the leisure centre in Unst.
- Davy MacDonald, the Library driver and handyman, who fixed the frames and posted the poems all over Shetland.
- Milford Georgeson who took the photos and entertained with speech and song on the launch night.
- All the other Library staff – nearly everyone is involved in promoting the project and helping sell the books.
- Shetland Litho who made a great job of printing the book.
- All the Bards whose poems appear in the book: without exception they have been positive and enthusiastic about the project and the link to the World Toilet Organisation.
- James Sinclair, Jim Mainland, Susan Pearson and Keith Adam - the local Bards who read for us on the launch night.
- Silvija Crook and Caroline Henderson, our volunteer readers on the night, and Trevor Jamieson who performed toilet-themed songs.
- The local and national media, who have given Bards in the Bog such positive publicity.
- All of our discerning customers for buying the book!
